

Microservices and MQLight at the SpaceHack Live event

j0nnyMac

Published on 14/05/2015 / Updated on 15/06/2015

0

At our recent SpaceHack Live event, Steve Upton took the stage to deliver a great talk around using MQ Light as the transport for Microservices.

This was delivered as part of the SpaceHack event, which the students from the Edge of Space project attended to learn about IBM BlueMix, MQ Light, Node-RED and Cloudant, which provides the processing muscle to represent the conditions encountered by the probe. Check him out here...

